

Christine Damko
Economic Development Manager, City of Temecula

Christine Damko serves as the Economic Development Manager for the City of Temecula. She is responsible for the city's economic development strategy, which includes business retention and expansion programs, business attraction, business ombudsman services and foreign affairs. She also manages the City's public relations activities, including City social media accounts. Before moving to the Office of Economic Development in 2008, Christine worked as a Land Use and Environmental Planner for the City of Temecula and also the County of San Diego.

Christine earned her Bachelor's degree in Public Administration with an Emphasis in Urban Planning from San Diego State University and a Master's degree in Public Administration from Cal State University Dominguez Hills.